

PUBLIC TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF LEE

Capital of Government for Which
He Fought Celebrates Birthday.

MEETING AT LEE CAMP HALL

Citizens Make Addresses—Parade and Salute at Lee Monument.

Nearly fifty years after the Army of Northern Virginia assembled to follow Robert Edward Lee, the people of the capital city of the government for which he fought, paid tribute to the memory of the chief and his people. The honor, if Lee could be honored, said Mayor Richardson, could be done to him who was perhaps Virginia's greatest man.

The hall of Robert E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans was packed for the affair which celebrated Lee's birthday. Addresses were also delivered by former Governor A. J. Montague and by Judge George L. Christian, while a musical program was given and refreshments were served. Crosses of honor were presented to veterans and to widows and descendants.

Captain Tompkins Present.
This event was signified by the presence of Captain Sally Tompkins, the only woman who received a commission as an officer from the Confederate government. Captain Tompkins did not feel equal to the task of presenting the crosses of honor, but she evinced the keenest pleasure at being present.

"It is an ill day," said ex-Governor Montague, "when a people forget those who made them what they are; when they forget the memory of a man like General Lee. We may be captains of finance, we may prosper in material things, we may ride on golden wheels propelled by electricity, yet we are but dust in the balance if we neglect the higher things of life."

"This meeting, to do honor to the memory of Lee and to the living men who followed him nearly half a century ago, is a credit to ourselves, to our city and to our State. The world to-day pays tribute to the genius and to the goodness of the Southern leader. We may go to England, and there we will find such men as Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener, and Colonel Henderson, and Lord Wolseley adding their praise to ours."

Need Sacrificing Men.
"So long as we raise men who are willing to see themselves go down for their communities are built up, so long will our civilization grow. But if we develop a race of trimmers, of fence-straddlers, of dissemblers, we will lose our civilization."

The cause of local self-government, for which we fought in the sixties, said Mayor Richardson, "is as live to-day as it was fifty years ago. It is still right, as our cause was then. We love Lee for his goodness as far as his genius. It is the sacrifice and the endurance and the suffering which General Lee and his followers had to face of the civilized world."

Colonel John W. Gordon, commander of the camp, presided. Rev. James F. Polinder, offered prayer. Judge

Howitzers, dismounted, and then the First Battalion of the First Regiment, led by the Second Regiment Band, acting as the First Battalion band. The two musical organizations evoked much favorable comment.

Last of all came the veterans of Robert E. Lee and George E. Pickett's Camp. For them the cheering was mainly reserved, the old soldiers marching proudly as they did many years ago.

Surrounds Statue.
The route was from Fifth and Franklin to Lee Monument. Arrived at the monument, the veterans were drawn up at the east front, the daughters of the Confederacy and the inmates of the Soldiers' Home being in the inclosure. The military was drawn up in square around the monument grounds.

All being in attention, a section from the Howitzers fired a salute of seventeen guns to the general whose birthday was being celebrated. The band played several selections, and the soldiers were marched back to their armory.

Wreaths of evergreen were hung about the base of the statue, and Confederate flags were also frequently seen in residences along the line of march.

ident, Congress and the State Department to take steps "to terminate such treaties to the end that if treaty relations are to exist between the two nations it shall be upon such conditions and guarantees only as shall be consonant with the dignity of the American people."

These officers were elected: J. Walter Frederic, president; Charles Shohl, vice-president; Lipman Levy, secretary, and Solomon Fox, treasurer, all of Cincinnati.

If there is any discrimination against the Jew immigrant at Ellis Island Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, cannot find it. At the close to-day of one of his periodical visits of inspection, he took occasion to deny the charge Max Kohler made to the delegates of the Union yesterday that the Jew does not have as good a chance to get into this country as other aliens.

The Bankers Realty and Security Company, which was owned and controlled by Joseph G. Robin, and the Fidelity Development Company, the affairs of which were manipulated by Robin, as though it was his own property, each had accounts at the River-side Branch of the Broadway Bank of the Northern Bank, of which Grant was president.

Beginning with last spring a continuous check-kiting operation was carried on, starting at first with only ten or fifteen thousand dollars, and gradually working up until at the time of the recent indictment, it was over $100,000. Grant, it is charged, was cognizant of this continuous check-kiting.

ANOTHER EXTENSION
Proposed Railroad Rate Advance Held Up Until March 15.

Washington, January 19.—Upon the conclusion of the Eastern and Western trunk line association territory today, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced that the carriers had agreed to postpone the increase from February 1 to March 15, in order to afford the commission adequate time in which to deal with the great question presented.

After nineteen and a half hours of argument, in four days, the so-called Western rate case was submitted finally to the commission at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The commission expects to announce its decision in the Eastern and Western cases by March 1. Meantime, the members will study the records with a view to reaching a conclusion. It is the desire of the commission to afford both the carriers and the shippers adequate time in which to adjust themselves to whatever conditions the decision may make.

J. Norton, of the Santa Fe Railroad, after stating that the position of his road is that its rates never have been high enough, declared that "a view to reaching a conclusion, it is the desire of the commission to afford both the carriers and the shippers adequate time in which to adjust themselves to whatever conditions the decision may make."

Mr. Norton held up to the commission the spectre of government ownership, and declared that a decision against the proposed advance in rates would be a disaster to the United States.

MONEY IS RECOVERED
But That Will Not Stop Prosecution of State Treasurer.

Bismarck, N. D., January 19.—Funds amounting to $60,694 were paid into the State Treasury to-day by the First State Bank of Bow, Bells, to cover the amount which it is claimed was embezzled by former State Treasurer G. L. Bickford, who was formerly president of the bank and who was arrested late yesterday.

Attorney-General Miller said to-day that the recovery of the money in the State Treasury will not stop the criminal prosecution begun against Bickford.

In a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives to-day, a committee was empowered to investigate the administration of the Treasurer's office for a period of eight years.

WAR IS DECLARED
Armed Bands Are Gathering in the Yemen Mountains.

Aden, Arabia, January 19.—The Imam of Sana, Seyid Yahya, has declared war against the Turks, and armed bands are gathering in the Yemen Mountains. The notorious sheik, Beni Pasha, has joined the Imam's standard, and is rising throughout Yemen, a region of southwestern Arabia, is expected.

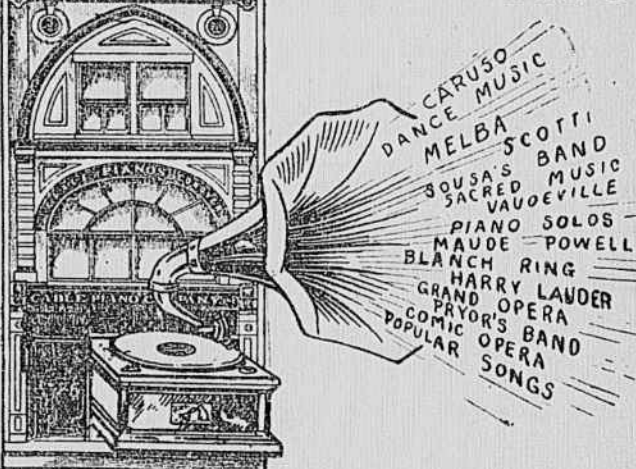

The pretender, Idriess, has assumed the capital of Asir province has been under siege since early in December, the governor and a large garrison being barred in.

Recent dispatches from Constantinople said that the Turkish government had determined to suppress the rebellion that has existed for several years in Yemen, and that it would send thirty fully equipped battalions into that district. The embarkation of troops began January 18.

CHECKS WERE KITED

Banker Who Permitted It Now Under Indictment.

New York, January 19.—Frank L. Grant, formerly president of the Northern Bank, of New York, to-day was indicted in the grand jury on a misdemeanor charge of having concealed and failed to report to the bank's directors a loan of $49,000.

The alleged loan was made on September 28 to the Bankers' Security Company and the Fidelity Development Company, both controlled by Joseph G. Robin, chairman of the Northern Bank's board of directors, now in the Tombs, under an indictment for grand larceny. The indictment followed a grand jury investigation of the books of the Northern Bank.

After entering a plea of not guilty, Grant gave $5,000 bail and was released. District Attorney William J. Sullivan issued a statement in relation to the indictment, in which he said:

"The Bankers' Realty and Security Company, which was owned and controlled by Joseph G. Robin, and the Fidelity Development Company, the affairs of which were manipulated by Robin, as though it was his own property, each had accounts at the River-side Branch of the Broadway Bank of the Northern Bank, of which Grant was president."

Beginning with last spring a continuous check-kiting operation was carried on, starting at first with only ten or fifteen thousand dollars, and gradually working up until at the time of the recent indictment, it was over $100,000. Grant, it is charged, was cognizant of this continuous check-kiting."
